REDS PREPARING ANOTHER TAEGU DRIVE

Begin shelling U.S. supply road North of city

KOREAN

Taegu Front, September 10. The Communists began heavy shelling of the First Cavalry Division's main supply road four and a half miles North of Taegu at sundown today in what appeared to be preparation for another all-out attack on the city.

An Eighth Army spokesman said he believed the shelling presaged an attack, "as concerted as they are able to make," by two North Korean divisions—the First and 13th.

These divisions had been probing the North West corner of the United Nations beachhead above Taegu for more than a week.

Sheer madness tor Chinese Reds to enter

Washington, September 10

The Secretary of State, Dean Acheson, said today it would be sheer madness for the Chinese Communists to enter the Korean war.

Mr. Acheson told told a television audience that the Communists would only invite dismemberment and destruction if they lost, and stood to gain nothing if they won.

China, he declared, must realise the Soviet threat to absorb its Northern p svinces. "I give the people in Peking intelligencel enough to see what is happening to them," the Secretury said.

"I cannot see why they should. want to further their own dismemberment and destruction by getting at cross-purposes with all the free nations of the world who are inherently their friends and have always been the friends of the Chinese as against imperialism coming down the Soviet Union."

Mr. Acheson emphasised again here this evening. He observed that the Communists have made much of the U.S. agreement to return Formosa to China under the Calro Declaration, but that they falled to mention that a decision to create a free and independent Korea was also in the Declaration.

"Since there is nothing in the invasion of Korea for the Chinese Communists," Mr. Acheson remarked "I don't see why they should be misled by what is undoubtedly pressure from Communist movement to get into this Korean row. We still believe the Chinese are going to be Chinese before they are going to

Iruman vetoes Asiatic

Washington, September 9. Prosident Truman today vetoed the bill which would have granted naturalisation rights to American residents of Asiatic origin who have been barred from citizenship.

He did so because it contained a provision that would deny citizenship to persons associating with Communist front organisations.

He asked Congress to reennet the second part of the bill, which would have theorctically removed the last racial bars to naturalisation. It would have made it possible for an estimated 84,000 Japanese, 3,000 Koreans, and 145 listed As Polynesians of other Asians, all now living in the U.S., to become naturalised citizens provided they could otherwise qualify. President Truman said in urging Congress to repass this ection of the bill.

President Truman used his veto on a section of the bill which would have kept any alien from longed to the Communist or any totalitarian party or political association, "or any direct predecessors or successors of any such association or party," regardless of its name.

The President told Congress that the language of this section. on Communist front groups "is so vague and ill-defined that no one can tell what it may mean or how might be to weaken our naturalisation laws rather than strengthen them and jeopardise the basic rights of our naturalised 27 areas embracing all the discitizens and other persons legi- tricts in Hong Kong and Kowtimately admitted to the United loon.

Old laws

The vetoed bill covers only part of the Administration's programme to break down the last many of them enacted many years ago, which bar naturalisation to more than a billion Asiatic people, assuming they could individually meet the same standards of immigrants not thus barred.

In 1934, Congress enacted a bill setting up a small quota for Chinese, and in 1946, dld the same for Filipinos and races from India.

The vetoed bill omitted a quota for the races it would affect and was basically a stopgap measure introduced early this year after it became plainthat the overall programme would not pass Congress this year. Without a quota it would not cover non-residents.

The comprehensive programme was passed last year by the House but was tabled by the Senate. It would have set up

Washington, September 9. President Harry Truman tonight set up a powerful new wage, price, production control system to steer the U.S. through a mighty defence programme that may last for many years and cost far more than $30,000,000,000 annually.

Warning that the fight against Communist aggression will demand sacrifices from every American, the President declared that price and wage controls will be imposed vigorously and promptly if either wages or prices get out of

And he served notice that industry to the extent necessary will will have to stop making some civilian goods and begin turning out military equipment.

In a radio television address to the nation, the Chief Executive called for these further steps to spur production, keep inflation in check and put the mobilisation programme on a pay as you go basis:

1: Higher taxes for everybody. President Trumnn said his call for a five billion dollars rise in income taxes is only the first installment. He asked un excess profits tax to make sure that nobody will "get rich out of this

T.U.C. ON FOREIGN AFFAIRS

In Britain the trade unionist is a power in the land. In Russia he is a cypher and a slave. The British trade unionist votes Labour - and thinks more like Churchill than many a man born to high estate. In spite of all temptation to belong to other nations, he remains an Englishman. And, to quote W. S. Gilbert again, that is "greatly to his credit." The Trade Union Congress at Brighton has once more, by an overwhelming vote at the Brighton Congress, rejected Communism and all its latest works. The Congress President, Mr. Arthur Deakin, gave it a. new label. He called it "Red Fascism," and the vote showed that Britain's organised workers thoroughly accept this definition. MR. ATTLE'S WARNING

Communists could rule British trade unions THE ENEMY WITHN

London, September 9. The Prime Minister, Mr. Clement Attlee, denouncing today "the enemy within", warned that Communists could rule the trade unions, capture the Co-operatives and wreck the Labour Party. that, he said, was done by a very active, small minority — often a very small minority acting against the wishes of the majority. "The Communists have one great ally", he warned, "indifference and slackness of the majority."

Nanking Embassy

Tokyo, September 10. An Egyptian diplomat was soriously wounded when he engaged three armed robbers who broke into the premises of the Egyptian Embassy in Nanking, according to a Peking broadcast. Boutros Abadir, Egyptian charge d'affaires originally accredited to the Nationalist government; was admitted to the Nanking Presbyterian

Hospital with serious knife wounds and is in a critical condition, the radio said. The incident occurred at 11 p.m. on September 3. The three robbers overpowered the watchman and entered the Embassy premises at 59, Pek-

Paris, September 9 A clash between Britain and the United States on financial policy was beginning to work up behind the scenes of the International Monetary Fund meeting in Paris today.

The difference, it was learned in quarters close to the Fund's Governors, might, develop into a threat to the unity of the sterling area.

The immediate clash was on wool and dollars. The United States clearly thinks that, if lars easier to get and wool Programmes were submitted harder, wool should in future be distributed by international allocations, and the sterling area should relax exchange controls which were designed to cut dollar buying. This attitude put both Britain and Australia in a difficult position. If wool were distributed by international allocations instend of on the free market, the United States could get the wool it needs for uniforms without having to outbid other buyers, including Russia. But Australian wool growers would also have to give up some of the profits they are making culture reported today. in the present wool price boom. The Australians would obvious-

HONG KONG WATERFRONT

BY OUR HARBOUR REPORTER

Originally trained in the ancient craft of sail making, these veterans are spending more energy and technique in producing lifebuoys and life jackets, which are more in demand today. By a systematic process of division of labour, boards of cork are cut into pieces, carved into the desired shapes, glued together and finally sewed into canvas jackets--- in one working day, two life Jackets or one lifebuoy can be made by one worker. ("China Mail" Photo).

DYING TRADE

How the ancient craft of sail making was first introduced into Hong Kong is still a matter of conjecture but it is known that the founder of the Colony's oldest sail making shop learned it from European seamen aboard visiting windjammers some 90 years ago in Victoria Harbour.

Since 1860—when one Yip Woon founded the "A. Lung Sail Making Company," the first in Hong Kong—the trade has seen many prosperous periods. But the general consensus now is that sail making is a dying craft due mainly to the current depression in the local shipbuilding industry.

AN HONEST LIVING--THE PEANUT VENDOR

Selling thousands of brilliantlyolled pennuts-rousted and salted for the palate—is a business generally undertaken by a vociferous young lad whose strident cries are a familiar sound along the Praya in the noon hours.

Favourite "tit-bit" of the waterfront community, this enterprise is another of the numerous "honest living", one-man businesses to be found in the Colony's cradle of industrystretching from Connaught Road, Central, to West Point.

Though it is not actually a full-time job-usually starting in the afternoon—the peanut vendor can at best earn as much as $5 a day, which entails not more than five hours of work.

His capital is meagre—a few dollars for the raw ground nuts (several cattles), oll, firewood and a tin of table salt. He sells at

The curtain lifted on the 1950/51 Softball scene yesterday when the Braves snotched an 8-6 decision over the Americans, while the Wahoos nosed out St. Teresa's 8-7 after an extra inning of play.

The traditional march-past, accompanied by the melodic strains of a 30-piece band from the Filipino community, lined up in front of the official guests, after which Prexy "Doc" Molthen addressed the assembly.
